

Initial Build Notes

Creative Director: Jamie Shin

Designer: Amber Edmonds

What's working:

- I love the color scheme! I like how bright and playful it is
- Font and font size is good, as well as image placement, especially with the timeline
- I like how the Learn More section as well, as well as the images chosen
- Hover effect of the navbar (turning red) is nice

What isn't:

- Maybe for the Learn More section, instead of having the buttons also say 'Learn More', you could have a different phrase to avoid repetition? Like 'explore' or something similar!
- When I minimize my screen size, the words in the top banner section overlap with the image (like with the composition page), so maybe using a media query would help!

where the microsite goes from here:

- I think adding some more images would be nice! The main page has a lot of visuals, which I like about it, so incorporating that into other pages of the website would be good.
- Maybe break up/reduce some of the text in some of the pages? Especially with the production page, so that it's more digestible! I think I wanted the website to have shorter/more concise verbal descriptions and lots of visuals.
- For the brands page, maybe reduce the list down to just top 10 or so and have an image for each? A grid might be nice! (in that case, maybe a 3x3 with 9 total ramen brands with corresponding pictures, but up to you what the dimensions are).
